Updating to Microsoft Vista? Sell Used Computers or Buy Compatible New or Used Computers through Vernon Computer Source

Vernon is Vista-ready and provides new or used computers to businesses set to upgrade, or buys from those looking to purge

January 23, 2007(Stamford, CT) – With the latest addition to the Microsoft Windows family, Vista, companies across the nation are eradicating their used computers to make room for newer models while others slash technology costs and need the best used computer equipment on the market. Vernon Computer Source, a leading computer technology sourcing company, buys and sells corporate used computers at mutually agreed fair market prices, meeting the needs of both buyers and sellers.

“Many companies hang on to their computers far longer than they really want to, simply from a perceived lack of disposal alternatives,” says Al Turnbull, Vernon Vice President of Finance and Director of IT. “If the CFOs knew how easily they could turn their out dated computers into cash, they would happily re-invest sooner in newer technology.”

Used computer buyers can turn to Vernon Computer Source for both new and used computers, laptops, notebooks, servers, printers and more from all major brands including Sun, Apple, IBM, HP, Cisco, Toshiba and Dell. Vernon sells used computers that are already configured to accept Windows Vista. They also offer several rental options, including computer rent-to-own, for those who want a trial run before owning the equipment. All Vernon computers and peripherals are Grade A, cleaned, pre-tested and virus swept.

For corporations ridding their offices of excess overhead, Vernon can buy back old used computers, notebooks and laptops. If the computers are still functional, Vernon will audit and refurbish them, making them accessible to businesses, individuals or schools that can still enjoy them for several more years. Vernon also offers a unique Employee Purchase Program which enables the employees of the companies getting rid of excess equipment to buy it for themselves online through Vernon’s Web site. If Vernon acquires obsolete equipment, they take the proper measures to dispose of it safely in government regulated, environmentally responsible facilities.
